Academics

Reading

This was a big week for us in reading!! We started discussing this week how you read with your minds "turned on" so you truly understand what you read. We discussed stopping and doing a comprehension check after every chapter. When a chapter is finished, we discussed asking yourself who was in this part, what just happened, and how does this fit with what already happened? These are great questions to use with your child at home as well! We ended our week by starting a discussion about making meaningful, detailed predictions. Instead of just saying "the character will win," having the students add in how the character will win.

Math

We started this week with a scavenger hunt around the classroom to find different objects of specific lengths. We then discussed different strategies (from second grade) to use to combine these lengths. We ended our week with a work sample (which is similar to a checkpoint) and enjoyed playing some of our Workplaces. The students were taught two new workplaces this week!

Math continued

Writing

We continued working on writing a true story using a storyteller's voice. Trying to make a mental movie for your audience as you are writing.

Social Studies

We continued learning about maps. This week we focused on the map key/legend. This was a little more challenging for students. After many, many, many reminders they all started to use the map key to figure out what the symbols mean. We ended our week by having students draw their own map with a map key included.

Congratulations!!

Today was our first school-wide ticket pull of the year! Here are our lucky winners for this month:

Ava Wulf
Leah Schacht

Many students earned PAWesome tickets this month! Check your child's Friday folder to see if your child was one of them. There is a certificate with his/her ticket, telling you why they are PAWesome!

Photos

Check out some new writing photos that I added to our folder "Photos 2017." If you requested access to them before, you should still have access to any new ones I add. If you can't see them, please let me know.
